

What is Done is Done... Or Is It?

I am a collection of thoughts and memories. I am a product of everything that has happened to me and a product of those accomplishments and failures that I created during my life. A part of me is every person, every place, and every thing that I have seen and touched. You can not feign TRUTH when your own eyes have seen it and are watching it happen.

Our Earth is warming, its ice caps are melting, glaciers are becoming extinct, the coral is dying, unique species of life have been wiped from our Earth forever, our soil is eroding, the Rain Forests are shrinking and disappearing, fisheries are depleted, humans are overpopulating and destroying the very Earth that gives us life. Something is very wrong with mankind if as individuals we can not recognize these facts. Hard facts which are true and cannot be refuted. We as individuals - we as humans can not get caught up in our own emotions and opinions. Instead we must try to focus on the hard facts of the situation and make decisive decisions to what is to be done.

Humans demand rights. Our Earth is demanding the same rights and is showing it. The time is now to end humanity's right to entitlement. Instead we must replace entitlement with a sense of responsibility and service not only to the Earth, but to humanity itself.

Simply stated: STOP ALL ENTITLEMENT IN ALL FORMS... NOW!

It is that simple.

XYZ – Papi

- Writing to the World Even though there is no one listening.
- January 2, 2002